

What young people say about divorce

Children and young people told us that it's not divorce itself, but the way that it is handled, that has a lasting impact.

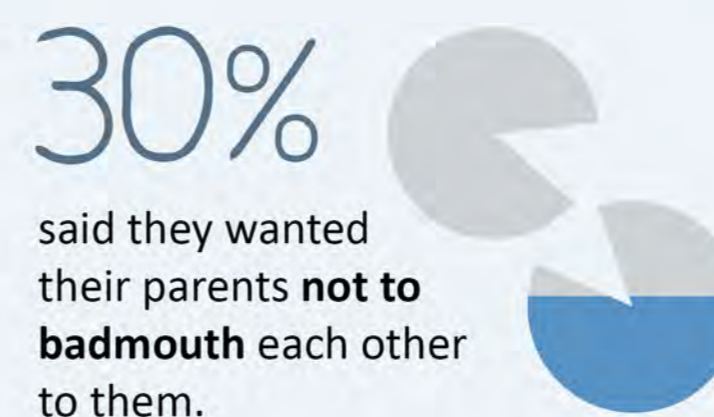

Young people don't see separation and divorce as an inherently bad thing:

Young people want divorce explained better:

What young people most wanted to change about their parents' divorce:

Young people worried about money during their parents' divorce:

